Production: Jack and Joe Theatre (2000)
Director: Alexey Merkushev
Performer: Alexey Merkushev
Time: 55'

There is a lost man who has to pass through difficulties of his life. A person who liberates himself from his own breakdowns and violence...Even in a healthy, well developed society there exist always some negative aspects. The evil, bringing the strength of violence feeds sick, weak minds of human beings who start to attack, destroy, kill the others and the world around. The only hope is that in a critical moment the positive power will appear to help a man to get out from the deepest abysses, to let him understand a nonsense of his fears, to light another way the world. To give him a chance of renewal. So, there is a human being, alone, deeply sinking in violence and evil's powers. By sudden illumination he enters the difficult road of life changes...Reborn by the trial, comes out as the new almost noble person...

The show can be played only in open air spaces.
